Outlook

Following the briefing, we remain optimistic about Northeast's outlook, supported by resilient demand for photonics such as high-power lasers, and fibre-optic products, which continue to drive strong revenue contributions. We understand that the higher value added on complex products will raise average selling prices from existing customers, while new product innovations (NPIs) are expected to deliver better margins despite lower volumes. Its orderbook increased by 80% to RM45mn in 4Q25 (from RM25mn in 3Q25), mainly driven by the photonics segment. This reflects growing customer demand, with Northeast being awarded more NPIs that carry stronger margins, which we expect to transition into mass production in FY26F. Meanwhile, the semiconductor segment remains stable. We believe Northeast is also benefiting from trade diversion amid geopolitical tensions, as a semiconductor customer has shut down one plant and shifted orders to Northeast. Consequently, we raise our FY26F earnings forecast by 9% to reflect stronger, higher-margin contributions from the photonics segment.

Recommendation

We reiterate BUY call with new target price of RM1.06 (from RM0.97), based on unchanged FY26F PE of 23x, reflecting resilient demand from photonic market.

Investment Risk

1. Intense competitive environment. The precision engineering and components manufacturing industry is highly competitive, both regionally and globally. Competitors from lower-cost countries may undercut pricing, impacting margins and market share.
2. Technology and Capital Investment Risk. Continuous investment is required to keep up with rapid technological changes in precision engineering and automation. Failure to invest in advanced machinery, process innovation, or digitalization could lead to obsolescence and loss of competitiveness.
3. Labour Dependency and Regulatory Exposure. The Group relies heavily on skilled and semi-skilled labour, including foreign workers. Changes in government policies regarding foreign labour quotas, work permits, or minimum wages could disrupt operations or increase labour costs
